“LIBERTY LET’S ROLL” TOUR TO REMEMBER THE ALAMO

Striking forth from Idaho with the passion and purpose embodied by the heroes of the Alamo, the eight-foot cast bronze sculpture, “Liberty let’s Roll!” will be exhibited next to this historical San Antonio mission.

This remarkable sculpture is a modified version of the Statue of Liberty employing a Kung-Fu-style kick. Its title, “Liberty Let’s Roll!” was inspired by the challenge uttered by UA flight 93 passenger Todd Beamer on 9/11. The thought provoking form causes people to think about liberty and what it means to them personally. Ms. Deely states “We can either be a victim of circumstances or kick through the obstacles that prevent us from embracing the freedom to pursue our dreams”. In July 2008, ABC Television’s New York affiliate recorded the sailing of the 1000 pound sculpture around the Statue of Liberty as guest of the National Park Service – a goal many thought impossible.

This year The Liberty Tour has scheduled stops along the West Coast before arriving in Texas. The sculptor is available to talk about the inspiration behind the work. People are invited to take part in the “Liberty Booth” where their thoughts about freedom are recorded on video. Selections from this will be included in an upcoming documentary and inclusion in Ms. Deely’s book, Anatomy of A Dream.

Due to the enthusiastic response of the 2008 tour where it was invited onto various military posts, art galleries, public libraries and national parks, Deely is motivated to share the message with more people. Liberty’s 2009 tour includes La Jolla Cove in the San Diego area on June 13th.
